Australian Government policies and programs

Until 2013 Indigenous policy and programs were delivered by a range of government departments including, but not limited to, the Departments of Health, Social Services (formerly Department of Families, Housing, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs—FaHCSIA) and Education (formerly Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations—DEEWR). Primary responsibility for Australian Government Indigenous affairs policy and program delivery is now held by the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet (PM&C), overseen by the Prime Minister and the Minister for Indigenous Affairs. The Prime Minister is also advised by the Indigenous Advisory Council.

Within the Closing the Gap framework (discussed below), the Coalition Government’s key priorities in Indigenous Affairs have been stated as school attendance and education, employment, and the rule of law ensuring community safety, especially for women and children.

With the exception of Indigenous health programs delivered by the Department of Health, Australian Government programs in Indigenous affairs are mostly organised under the Indigenous Advancement Strategy (IAS). Of PM&C’s 4 year, $8.6 billion Indigenous Affairs budget, $4.9 billion is allocated under the IAS, and $3.7 billion is allocated through National Partnership Agreements (discussed below), and other Special Accounts and Special Appropriations. For more information on government programs, see the Indigenous.gov.au website.

The IAS divides policies, programs and grants into 5 broad streams:

- Jobs, Land and Economy
- Children and Schooling
- Safety and Wellbeing
- Culture and Capability
• Remote Australia Strategies.

For information on program spending and contracting by the IAS, PM&C hosts a database of grants and a list of all organisations receiving grants.

For ease of use, this Quick Guide groups Indigenous-related programs which remain in other departments, such as the Department of Infrastructure’s Remote Aerodrome Inspection Program, under these topic headings (with the exception of Health programs and National Partnerships).

Jobs, Land and Economy

This includes programs addressing Employment, Land and Economic Development

• Commonwealth Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Employment Strategy

• Indigenous Procurement Policy

• Emissions Reduction Fund—while not specifically Indigenous, Indigenous communities have been significant beneficiaries of the fund by using traditional fire management as ‘carbon farming’

• Green Army and the National Landcare Programme—while not specifically Indigenous, Indigenous communities have used Green Army and Landcare programs for a variety of projects

• Employment Parity Initiative

• Vocational Training and Employment Centres (VTECs)

• Community Development Programme (CDP)—a Government Bill to change and extend the CDP program was before the Senate at the dissolution of the 44th Parliament

- Indigenous Australians’ Health Programme
- Child and Maternal Health
- National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Plan 2013–2023.

COAG ‘Closing the Gap’ framework
The ‘Closing the Gap’ campaign aims to close the health and life expectancy gap between Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and non-Indigenous Australians within a generation.

The COAG Reform Council Indigenous Reform Agenda is implemented through a National Indigenous Reform Agreement created in 2009, which sets ‘Closing the Gap’ targets and the partnership between all levels of government to address Indigenous disadvantage.

A number of National Partnership Agreements (NPAs) were created as a part of ‘Closing the Gap’, specifying Commonwealth, state and territory government actions to achieve the targets. Some of these are still current and others have concluded. The Abbott Government expressed a preference for bilateral project agreements with the states and territories rather than multi-jurisdictional NPAs, so some of the concluded NPAs have been replaced with Project Agreements or other programs.

Current National Partnerships about Indigenous issues include:

- Improving Trachoma Control Services for Indigenous Australians - NSW, SA, WA & NT
- Renal Infrastructure in the Northern Territory
- Torres Strait health protection strategy (extended to 2020 in the 2016–17 budget)
- Rheumatic Fever Strategy - QLD, WA and NT and SA (extended to 2017 in the 2016–17 budget)
- Universal Access to Early Childhood Education (implements the early childhood education target)
- Stronger Futures in the Northern Territory—this NPA is being replaced with a National Partnership Agreement on Northern Territory Remote Aboriginal Investment (NTRAI)
- Primary Health Care Centres in the Remote Northern Territory
- Remote Indigenous Housing
- Homelessness (not exclusively Indigenous, but homelessness is a disproportionately Indigenous problem)
- Management of the former Rum Jungle mine site (Stage 2) (extended to 2017 in the 2016–17 Budget).

Constitutional recognition

The Coalition, Labor, the Greens, and the Nick Xenophon Team have all expressed support for recognising Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in the constitution, and opinion polls show broad public support. Debate continues on what form this recognition should take, and when a referendum should be held to make the proposed change. The Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition have agreed to be guided by the advice of the Referendum Council on how to progress the referendum.
