PRINCIPLES
Permanent placement principles for casework decision-making and the Children’s Court underlying CP Legislation Amendment Act 2014. Children allowed to determine whether a guardianship application proceeds. Aspect of 2014 legislation that empowers children to have a say in decisions that affect their long-term care. All Guardianship applications require the consent of the child or young person subject to the order.	New Guiding principle in Children and Community Services Legislation Amendment and Repeal Act 2015. Emphasises the need for timely consideration as to whether a child can be reunified with their birth family or whether long-term OOHC options need to be considered.		A central tenet from the Queensland Child Protection Commission of Inquiry (2012) is that protecting children is “everyone’s responsibility” and a concerted effort is required to ensure Queensland children and young people are cared for, protected, safe and able to reach their full potential. Some of the options being explored by DCCSDS as part of the review of the Child Protection Act 1999 (Qld) relate to existing principles in the Act. One option being considered is to introduce an expanded paramount principle of “the safety, wellbeing and best interests of a child now and throughout their lives”.		“Permanency” replaced “stability” in the best interest principle in the Children, Youth and Families Act (amended 2014). The desirability of making decisions as expeditiously as possible and the possible harmful effect of delay in making a decision or action included in Children, Youth and Families Act (amended 2014).	Children, Young Persons and their Families Act 1997 strongly based on principles included in UNCROC. Principle that efforts should balance safety and risk with strengthening individual, family and community systems. Also identifies a wide range of people responsible for protecting children and young people. Principles to be observed in dealing with children (Part 1A) include responsibility of government, role of the child’s family, treating the child with respect, best interests of the child, child participation and Aboriginal children. Commissioner for Children and young people Act 2016. Specifies principles in performing function or exercising power such as best interests of child are paramount. See below.	National collaboration to drive improvements in permanency outcomes. Commonwealth, state and territory governments working collaboratively to develop a set of guiding principles to drive improvement in the achievement of permanency outcomes for children in OOHC. This collaborative work will focus on: (i) permanency and stability; (ii) timeliness of permanent care decisions; (iii) post placement support and payments by all jurisdictions, including for children in care or adopted through to adulthood; and (iv) building the evidence base and improved data collection, including uniform measures of stability and measures of success in relation to reunification and permanency. The Commonwealth and jurisdictions will direct further reform efforts towards enhancing consistency in permanent care arrangements across jurisdictions and investigating possible schemes for the mutual recognition of the suitability assessments of carers. Priority will also be given to continuing to work on prevention and early intervention, with a view to improving levels of family preservation and reunification and reducing the number of children entering OOHC, with a particular focus on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander families.

GOALS

Premier’s priorities <www.nsw.gov.au/improving-nsw/premiers-priorities/>. “Protecting our kids” one of 12 priorities. Objectives here are to decrease children re-reported at risk of significant harm by 15% by 20 June 2018. A vision and strategic direction for OOHC “Their Futures Matter” (2016) <www.facs.nsw.gov.au/reforms/children,-young-people-and-families/their-futures-matter-a-new-approach>. Goals are reduce entries into OOHC, increase exits from OOHC, reduce Aboriginal children and young people in OOHC, improve outcomes, shift to a system of needs-based wrap around support packages designed to meet the needs of cohorts of vulnerable children and their families, apply an investment and commissioning approach to service delivery and build	Preventing children from entering OOHC and reunifying children with parents priorities of Building a Better Future—OOHC Reform (2016). See below. Further reforms relate to developing a system that is driven by the needs of children and young people. Building safe and strong families (2016). Focuses on delivering shared outcomes through collective effort, a culturally competent service system, diverting families from the CP system and preventing children entering OOHC.	Nine strategic objectives and related indicators identified for the Community Services Directorate. <www.communityservices.act.gov.au/__data/assets/pdf_file/0003/1007787/CSD-Annual-Report-2015–16_revised-links.pdf>. Strategic objective no. 2 is to improve outcomes for children and families through the provision of coordinated locally based services. Strategic objective no. 3 is the provision of services and interventions that reduce the risk of re-substantiated reports of abuse. Strategic objective no. 7 is to improve stability of children in care through case management and appropriate services and programs.	Seven strategic directions to achieve long-term outcomes for CP Reform Program <www.communities.qld.gov.au/gateway/supporting-families/background/advancing-reforms-2016–2017>. These are sharing responsibility for the safety and wellbeing of children, supporting families earlier, working better with families in contact with the CP system, improving OOHC and post-care, meeting the needs of ATSI children, families and communities, delivering quality services through capable, motivated workforce and client-focused organisation and building an accountable, transparent and cost-effective system.	Five strategic outcome areas for the Department of Children and Families <childrenandfamilies.nt.gov.au/__data/assets/pdf_file/0010/379594/Department-of-Children-and-Families-annual-report-2015–16.pdf>. These are protect children from harm, optimise outcomes for children in care, partner with families, communities and agencies, continuous improvement to enable contemporary practice and a workplace that values and invests in people.	DHHS Outcomes Framework <www.dhhs.vic.gov.au/annual-report-2015–16>. Specifies four outcomes for people—healthy and well, safe and secure, capabilities to participate and connected to culture and community—and one system outcome—health and human services are person-centered and sustainable. Roadmap for Reform focused on four goals. These are strengthening communities to better prevent abuse and neglect, delivering early support to children and families at risk, keeping more families together through crisis and securing a better future for children who cannot live at home.		Indicators for measuring progress of National Framework for Protecting Australia’s Children. Six high-level outcomes: children live in safe and supportive families and communities, children and families access adequate support to promote safety and intervene early, risk factors for abuse and neglect are addressed, children who have been abused and neglected receive the support and care they need for their safety and wellbeing, Indigenous children are safe and supported in their families and communities, child sexual abuse and exploitation is prevented and survivors receive adequate support <www.aihw.gov.au/nfpac/data/>.

Outcomes measurement

FACS Outcomes framework. The FACS Outcomes Framework enables the systematic tracking of client outcomes across services, sectors and districts. Indicators reflect investment across multiple factors including other government and not for profit services, and private enterprise. The Outcomes Framework is designed to support a Return on Investment (ROI) approach to measuring the impact of programs, services and initiatives on client outcomes.

Development/Trial of FACS Quality Assurance Framework <<https://www.facs.nsw.gov.au/reforms/children,-young-people-and-families/quality-assurance-framework>>. The Quality Assurance Framework (QAF) trial commenced September 2016 and will provide OOHC caseworkers with access information about

SERVICE PROVIDERS
Progressive transition of the provision of OOHC services to the NGO sector < www.community.nsw.gov.au/about-us/key-reforms/oohc-program-reform >.	Increase provision of family support and OOHC by ACCOs. See above. DCPFS became a White Ribbon organisation (2016).		OOHCRI may make recommendations for recommissioning of existing investment, which may result in a change to the existing supplier profile.	Transition of the provision of OOHC services to the NGO sector planned.
